Lugar & alrededores:

Alva is located in South Florida between Fort Myers and LaBelle. With a population of 2600, it is a quiet town and it borders to the Caloosahatchee River. The Southwest Florida International Airport is just 23 km to drive, and Miami 220 km.

The name of the city has the following reason: A captain from Denmark, who was also a botanist, came across the Caloosahatchee River and liked it so much that he founded here the small village in 1800. The sailor had a special focus on a small white flower. Later the flower was named Alva (aka Sabatia brevifolia Rafinesque).

For many connoisseurs of fabulous places the Lovers Key State Park is one of the most beautiful beach in the world and therefore an absolute must to visit. The climate is subtropical and therefore consistently warm all year. The summer days have a temperature of approximately 88° F.
